

Trifles Used Are Odd and Artistic

Numerous Gay Decorations Among Accessories for Milady's Apparel.

Quaint Jingles are attached to a card of little ornaments made of ribbon and silk flowers, called lingerie sets—rings, rosettes, bow-knots and streamers which are sewn on the front or the shoulders of white and light-colored underwear. Most of these dainty trinkets are done in Dresden colors, but there are as many shades as there are silks and chiffons of which the lingerie is made: pale rose, blue, yellow, green, orchid and violet. And with each card is a merry little verse.

Talings to intrigue the fancy of elegantes are the little fans that have just been received from Paris by an exclusive New York shop. Novelty in fans are of a variety as great as the new fashions in stockings. The latest, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Times, are the reverse idea of the huge feather, spangled and lace affairs that have been conspicuous and popular through the winter season.

One of the daintiest of these small fans is a high oval, when open, brown Spanish lace over cream gauze covering the sticks, which are of fragrant sandalwood, delicately carved. Others have ribs of ivory, of mother-of-pearl, tortoise shell or amber, and are covered with lace, the most charming having no underlining of silk or other material, and showing the lace in the filmy beauty of its pattern.

Among these fans are some of such intrinsic artistic value as to be included in the catalog of a museum of fine arts. An ingenious novelty is a little fan of white satin, with spangles and lace applique, which, when closed, "breaks" in the middle and folds to a length of four inches—to be easily carried in an evening bag. It may be mentioned that these fans, with a few exceptions, are not costly. They make the most graceful gifts.

The mah jong fan has been carried into some of the accessories of dress, and is found just now in umbrellas and parasols. The newest are short and chubby, even more so than were those of last season, when the club-like handles with short, blunt ferrules were introduced. They are made also on frames like those of the Japanese paper sunshades, of bamboo, the ribs close together. The handles, of colored wood, highly polished, of ivory or of colored composition, are marked with the figures and the pawns—to use a chess phrase—of the Chinese game. The covers of the parasols are almost all of gaily colored silk, brilliant green and flamingo red being much used.

Quite the most fantastic sunshade seen in many seasons is one of black silk, covered almost to the outer edge with white rabbit fur. In the very middle of the parasol when open the head of a pussycat is reproduced, the eyes and nose being made of imitation tortoise shell, the ears and whiskers standing out briskly. When the shade is closed it appears to be a bunch of folded (imitation) ermine, with an ornament of tortoise shell—that being the kitten's nose. Notwithstanding the childishness of the concept, it is accomplished with such success as to gain it importance as a novelty.

Taffeta and Milan Used for an All-Black Hat

Dignity is the keynote of this little spring hat in which taffeta is interwoven with the milan straw of the crown and also used as a facing. It's all in black.

Waistcoats Are Made of Woolens and Linens

The prestige of the tailleur for the season is assured. One of the signs is the waistcoat, the new, ultra-smart affair that is cut so severely as to be easily mistaken for a man's "vest," that detail in which he appears always to have a particular pride.

The present model for women is a distinct contradiction to the loose over-blouse. It is fitted trim and presupposes a soft shirtdress or guimpe, a strictly tailored skirt, plaited or plain, and a severely plain coat. It is a compromise between the tailored suit with normal waistline, shirtdress and belt, and the elongated blouse that has lately been in favor, dropping the waistline to an indefinite point.

Some of the new waistcoats are made of somewhat "loud" patterns in woolens and linens—gay checks and blocks and stripes—yellow and green, black and white, scarlet and white, and endless other striking combinations and contrasts.

Afghan Flag

The Afghan flag consists of the following design: A mosque between two triangular pennants, a five-pointed star and inclosed within a combination of a circle and hexagon, all in flat white upon a black background.

The AMERICAN LEGION

THREE MEN LEAD IN MEMBERSHIP CONTEST

During 1923 honors for securing members for the American Legion were evenly divided between three men. These, John A. Smith of Sioux City, Ia., a member of the Monahan post; Hans Hunsdorf, a disabled man, post in a Minnesota hospital; and John Kass of Detroit, led all others in securing applications.

Smith obtained his members in a rather unique manner. He worked out a scheme known as the "Cadaby plan" by means of which he caused the big industrial firms of Sioux City to pay up the dues for ex-service employees, utilizing a "checkoff" for repayment. His record approximated nearly one member for each working day of the year.

Hunsdorf obtained his members by personal contact, particularly in Veterans' Bureau hospitals, and wherever veterans gathered and rolled his record up to nearly 250.

Kass, a member of the Charles A. Learned post in Detroit, made an earnest campaign for his applicants, and is said to have interviewed more ex-service men than either of the other two "champs." His record approximated that of Hunsdorf. But to do this, he faced severe competition from one Theodore Kolbe, now department adjutant of the Legion in Michigan. Kolbe's record was near enough to that of Kass that it took a board of judges to determine the standing of the two.

Kass has already made a start toward a 1924 record. On February 28 he had collected dues and applications from 60 veterans. His method of enrolling the veterans as Legionnaires is simple but efficient. "I ask them," he says. Kass' accomplishment was completed within 18 days, the duration of the post membership drive. In addition he added members to other Wayne county posts.

His approach is such the Legion officials in Michigan believe that he must use more salesmanship than do either Smith or Hunsdorf. Smith's plan for reaching the industrial concerns is sort of an advantage, while Hunsdorf gets men who are daily enjoying benefits of the Legion, they figure. And Kass gets out and lands the members by hard work, according to their idea.

The three have on a triangular race for membership honors this year. The learned posters have challenged Omaha post for the greatest membership during 1924, a record heretofore held by the Nebraska. Kass is one of the main reliances of the Detroiters in bringing this honor to his city.

Hunsdorf is avowed to better his record by at least a hundred, and while the men of Monahan post in Sioux City are dependent on Smith to handle the recruiting alone, it is safe to say that his record will approximate that of 1923.

The "Man from Michigan" has already been proclaimed champion of the Wayne county council membership campaign, and his accomplishment requiring less than three weeks would apparently put him into the national championship class with good chances in the final outcome.

Left Part of Estate to American Legion

One-fourth of the estate of a disabled World War veteran who died in Kansas City, Mo., was inherited by the American Legion. The veteran, Earl Mason of Indianapolis, provided for the bequest in his will, which named the head of the Legion district hospitalization committee as executor. The estate amounted to approximately $350.

The will recites that "every consideration and kindness had been shown to Mason by the Legion, and that he made the gift as a token of gratitude, and to assist in providing aid for other disabled veterans. Mason went to Kansas City several months ago broken in health and without employment. The Legion assisted him in securing compensation and hospital service."

Ideals of the Legion

Chairman Thomas H. McGowan of the Woburn (Mass.) school board recently expressed the ideals of the American Legion during an address made at a citizens' mass meeting held in that city.

"The American Legion offers itself as a constant reminder of self-sacrifice for the good of all. It does not ask for hero worship nor does it ask the American public for sacrifice. It asks only for encouragement in the great work it has undertaken in the care of needy comrades, in perfecting its organization into an all-inclusive entity of ex-service men, but above all to serve our country and our flag and to perpetuate the unexcelled traditions of a glorious history."

"The Legion strives to be unselfish in undertakings; it asks only for co-operation. The American Legion will maintain its place in the sun."

LEGION FATHERS ADDING COUNCILS

The American Legion Fathers, an auxiliary to the veterans' body, has already enrolled a number of councils—as the local units are termed—and applications for information concerning the auxiliary have been flooding national headquarters.

The first council to receive a charter from national headquarters was formed from fathers of men in Harvey post 155 of the Legion in Harvey, Ill. Harvey is a suburb of Chicago. Others of the first five to be established are in Malden, Mass., St. Paul, Minn., Topeka, Kan., and Bellingham, Wash.

The charter fee for a council is $10, and the application must be signed by ten men, either fathers of active Legionnaires, or of men who made the supreme sacrifice in the World War. The organization is not permitted to have either a state or national authority and is governed by the Legion post to which attached. The movement is primarily for the counseling of the Legionnaires, and assistance in carrying out the principles of the veterans' organization.

Wealth and Industry as Well as Man Power

Conservation of wealth and industry as well as of man power, as enunciated in the universal draft act, has received unanimous support from 4,000 Boston citizens.

This bill, now in congress, provides that every national resource be turned to government control in case of war in order to provide the utmost for protection of the nation. Gen. Charles R. Edwards, commander of the American Legion in Massachusetts, who spoke at a great mass meeting held in Boston, said that the greatest tragedy of the World War was the failure to conserve other resources as well as those of manhood.

Another Legion speaker who was acclaimed for his stand in this direction, was Maj. George L. Berry, international president of the Printing Pressmen's union, who spoke before a gathering of Legion men in the Hub city. Berry, a past national vice commander of the Legion and high in circles of labor organizations, declared that the passage of such an act was the best means to forestall war.

The bill was first passed as a resolution at the New Orleans convention of the Legion, and subsequently introduced in congress. It has received support of Secretary of War John W. Weeks, and other statesmen.

Interpretation of New York Insurance Laws

Compensation insurance rates for arms employing slightly disabled World War veterans should not be higher, according to the interpretation of state insurance laws made by Gov. A. H. Smith of New York.

The executive's ruling came in response to a protest from Department Commander E. E. Spafford of the American Legion in New York, who said that certain veterans found it difficult to obtain employment because their physical condition increased rates for workmen's insurance offered by private concerns.

According to Commander Spafford, the veterans had been accepted only as extra hazardous risks, and the Legion sought clarification of the state's attitude by word from the governor.

"I can state to you," wrote Governor Smith to Commander Spafford, "that the state insurance fund does not consider veterans suffering from a partial disability as extra hazardous risks, and takes no action, directly or indirectly, whether in premium rates or merit rating, which would in any way discourage employment of partially disabled veterans. Each accident is considered on the merits of the accident alone."

Wins Essay Contest

The privileges and obligations of an American citizen was the subject chosen by the American Legion in Lowell, Mass., for the annual essay contest. Komnenus Soukarakas, a high school student, was awarded first prize for his essay, which was selected from nearly 200. Soukarakas was also winner of an essay contest inaugurated by the National Guard unit in Lowell; the subject was "Armistice Day and Its Meaning."

Quick Work

There is a story told about a certain well-known Scotland Yard detective. A colleague from the country came to see him, and happened to speak lightly of the alleged smartness of the London pickpocket. Whereupon the Yard man offered to bet the other £10 that he would lose his watch without knowing it before he got to Charing Cross, a matter of a few hundred yards. The country colleague agreed and started out; the London man called to him a pickpocket well known to the police, and said, pointing to the countryman: "You see that chap? I want you to get me his watch. I'll give you £5 and see that you don't get into trouble." "Is it straight?" asked the man. "Sure," said the detective, "you know me." "Oh, well," said the man, "if it's straight—here it is!"

Many Kinds of Insects

It is computed that there are five times as many different kinds of insects as there are species of all other living things put together. Seventy years ago, the number of species of insects preserved in collections was about 170,000. Today it is estimated that there are 750,000 sorts and that without counting the parasitic creatures. In Europe alone there are 300,000 species. Most insects live on trees and plants. There are known to be 10,000 species of insects that live in our homes, and about 200 in the pine. Of these alone the varieties exceed 100,000.

Banana Is Odd Plant

To most of us the banana is the golden yellow fruit seen in great bunches on the fruit stalls. To the botanist it is the product of what is perhaps the most widely known plant without a stem of wood—an interesting member of a useful and widespread family. To the expert in food economics it is a fruit of profuse growth, yielding even wheat in food production to the acre. The history of the banana as an article of daily diet goes back into remote centuries in the civilization of the eastern hemisphere—Nature Magazine.

Black and White for Spring Wear

Combination Used in Large Plaids, Checks, Stripes, Is Attractive.

Black and white in many striking and beautiful combinations has made its appearance and is conspicuously presented by some of the leading houses, says a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Times. It is shown in large plaids, checks and stripes in the early spring lightweight wooleens and the new silks; in Arabesque and Chinese embroideries and in the all-over applique of some of the models—chemise dresses and suits.

Many of the coat suits are of black kasha cloth or twill, made severely plain, with revers and pockets and cuffs faced with gay black and white checked wool or silk—usually wool. Checked skirts are worn with plain black sports jackets, and vice versa, a skirt of black cloth, plaided, going with a sweater or coat of black and white in stripe or check.

Of the large assortment of sports suits, many of the most chic are done in black and white, with the combination carried out in hats, shoes, parasols and smaller accessories. It must be admitted that nothing is more smart and enduring.

In the more dressy costumes, some charming results are shown; for example, a one-piece gown of black flat crepe, made with unbroken, uncurving line from neck to hem, and appliqued with an all-over pattern of conventionalized flowers and leaves of white kid. The effect is beautifully soft and rich.

Polret has established some ideas in spring models that are taking well among fashionable Americans; and he is doing some strikingly daring things in black and white. Among these he has introduced effectively a touch of vivid color, red, green and orange. His favorite materials in the handsomer gowns are moire, crepe satin ottoman, satin and printed goods, principally in stripes and checks.

Chanel, too, has expressed her ideas in tailored suits and informal frocks, some of which are particularly chic. Her favorite model is a masculine outfit with a straight severe jacket usually lined with silk of the same shade, or of the same material, as the waist or dress.

Among the latest imported models, many are made of lamo plain, granulated, two-toned or in multi-colored designs. Skirts of Scotch plaid in green and brown came, old rose, gray or brown have jackets to match or harmonize in color, and are very smart for morning or sports wear.

Capes to Match Shown

With Spring Garments

A light and graceful note in some of the frocks designed for the spring season, is a cape to match. Some of these are attached to the dress itself, while some are separate, but they usually match in material and color.

A bright, fresh frock of jade green and white kasha, the long green tunic made over a skirt of white cloth, has collar and cuffs of the white and a three-quarter length cape of green in narrow plaids.

In an all-white costume made of flat crepe the skirt is plaided in clusters, irregularly, the coat tunic is fastened with many buttons sewn close together, and a detachable cape of the crepe is plaided the length of the dress.

The cape idea is illustrated in innumerable ways, even as deep collars on the softer one-piece gowns having the neck plain at the front.

Evening Gown of Lace

For evening wear the tube silhouette has its most telling exponents in frocks of satin finished at the bottom with a circular flounce of lace. They are rather trying in their absolute simplicity but when they are becoming there is nothing smarter or newer. One of coral color crepe satin has a flounce of lace dyed the same tone. The effect is unusual and really lovely.

Bell Ringer Loses Job

Notre Dame, the famous cathedral of Paris, is doing away with its woman bell ringer, and substituting electricity. The cathedral's official bell ringers for generations have been women of one family.

For the first time—a laundry soap that is really modern!

Because it is entirely dissolved
this new soap rinses out thoroughly

There are no bits of soap left sticking to garments to turn them yellow under the iron—there cannot possibly be—because Rinso is all dissolved into a rich cleansing soap solution. This solution has more cleansing power than bar soap—it soaks dirt out.

HOW hard you have to rub with bar soap to "soap" the clothes. Then how hard you have to rub to get out all the dirt.

And that isn't all! You still have to struggle a lot more to get out all the soap you had to rub in. Today you don't have all this work to do. A wonderful new soap now soaks dirt out.

WITH Rinso—the new kind of laundry soap—you are spared the drudgery of washday—that old hard rubbing. Simply soaking your clothes in the rich soapy Rinso solution loosens all the dirt.

Be sure to use enough Rinso to get big lasting suds after the clothes are in. Then even all those mean grimy places—cuff edges, neck bands, etc.—come spotless for you with only a light rubbing.

Then a good, thorough rinse takes out not only all the dirt, but also all the soap! Your clothes are snowy white the way you love to have them.

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux. Already over a million packages are used every week by progressive housewives.

Mary Succeeds on Main Street

By LAURA MILLER

A WOMAN WHO COUNTS

Nellie Brewer Price is an accurate person, whose youthful handwriting is balanced by dignified letter-paper. The letter bears the heading: "State of California, Department of Finance, Sacramento."

Of all the artistic and professional and business women met or written to, she's the first one who refuses to be beguiled into any opinions on her own career or that of "Miss Average Girl." So, though it goes against the grain for me to so much as make the right change for a dollar, I'll try to be accurate, too! And as a matter of fact there's enough romance in a mere letterhead, with Nellie Brewer Price's name second in the list of four persons—all otherwise of masculine persuasion—who make up the board of control of that marvelous country known as California. But again I stand corrected because Mrs. Price insists there haven't been any outstanding events in her career.

There was a university education. (To some of us a real event.) I followed a job in her father's insurance office—because he was in ill health. (What wouldn't many a girl give to be able to help father?) During that time she took up shorthand and learned bookkeeping (whether with difficulty, at night school, or as part of the day's work, her unromantic self doesn't say). Across the hall was a lawyer. He taught Nellie Brewer Price law in exchange for state boards and offices in California. The knowledge thus gained gave her special fitness for the work she now does as chief of the division of budgets and accounts. The general budget for all state expenditures, which she recently prepared and submitted to the legislature, that financial scheme on which the state will be run for the two years to come, totals $110,000,000.

Remember the small boys who used scornfully to announce, "Aw, girls can't count?" For obvious reasons the girl Laura Miller used to be had no retort. But think what a small army of Nellie Prices could save!

FEWER PALMS ARE FOUND IN THE U. S.

Fossil Remains Show They Used to Cover Continent

Some of the most beautiful of the palms which are native to this country seem to be retreating to very circumscribed areas, the royal palm, for example, which about the middle of the eighteenth century was to be found down the Saint John's river, between Lake George and Lake Dexter, in Florida, not now being found in that locality, according to Dr. John K. Small, Jr., according to palms recently at the New York Botanical Garden, Bronx park. Increasingly, he said, seem to be retreating to the retreat of this palm, which today cannot be found growing naturally within 250 miles of the locality in which it was found and recorded by William Bartram at the earlier date mentioned.

Few Palms Thrive in Pots

Of the royal palm Bartram records: "The palm trees here seem to be of a different species from the cabbage tree; their straight trunks are 60, 80 or 90 feet high, with a beautiful taper, of a bright ash color, until within six or seven feet of the top, where it is a fine green color, crowned with an orb of rich green plumed leaves."

Dr. Small is well known for his studies in the floristics of eastern North America. For several decades he has devoted much attention to the vegetation of the Southeastern states, having paid especial attention to the palm, cactus, spider lilies, flags, palms and other special groups of palms. This region, although the cradle of the white man's civilization on the North American mainland, remained for a long time a botanical terra incognita. Curiously enough, as Dr. Small pointed out, all except one of the 15 native palms of the continental United States are confined to this region.

"Although millions of persons outside of the tropics are acquainted with palms, their acquaintance is largely limited to palms in a potted state. It is not under such circumstances that palms reveal themselves as the princes of the vegetable kingdom," said Dr. Small. While there are many kinds that develop well in large greenhouses, most of the specimens grown indoors are puny, and even if well-developed, their surroundings so detract from their true characteristics that much of their natural beauty is lost.

Fossils Found in Arctic

During the later geologic ages palms grew in most parts of North America, as is shown by the fossils preserved in the strata of the continent. Remains of various organs, mostly leaves, have been found, not only in temperate North America, but also as far northward of the Arctic circle as collectors have thus far penetrated. Owing chiefly to the firm substance of their tissues, moreover, the minutiae of some of these ancient palms have been preserved to us in greatest detail. These palms of the North occurred mostly, if not wholly, in the later geologic ages, being most abundantly preserved in the strata of the Tertiary period, although they definitely appeared, developed and multiplied in the preceding period, the Cretaceous. In modern times there are two main centers of geographic distribution for palms—the one, tropical America, and the other, tropical Asia, with a minor center in tropical Africa.

Instead of extending into the Arctic regions as they formerly did, the northern geographic limits are now in the southern United States, southern Europe and southern Japan, while the southern limit is about middle Chile, or, in other words, the geographic distribution is within 38 degrees north latitude and 37 degrees south latitude, in regions with an average temperature of 60 degrees Fahrenheit or more, and a minimum rarely, if ever, below zero.

Sixteen Varieties in United States

The history of the palms of the continental United States, appears to cover nearly four centuries. The earliest reference seems to be the "Rio de las Palmas" on the map of Amerigo Vesputi, published by Cantino in 1502. This river seems to be intended to represent the Rio Grande. If this is so, the genus Sabal, represented by the Texas cabbage tree (Sabal texana), would be the first of our palms to be referred to, though indirectly. The last genus to come to light within our boundaries was Paurantia—the saw-cabbage palm—which was discovered in southern Florida in 1883.

Today sixteen different kinds of palms are known to grow naturally in the United States—four-feather palms and twelve-fan palms. The former seem to represent a more primitive type, at least as indicated by the structure of the leaf, in which the divisions are arranged along the sides of an elongate axis.

Creosoted Fence Posts Last for Many Years

The fact that wood is becoming scarce and labor more expensive is causing farmers to seek means of making their fence posts last longer. Says the New York Times. Experimenters have shown that creosote will solve the problem, according to the New Jersey College of Agriculture.

Prof. E. R. Gross of the college states that fence posts treated in creosote will last three to five times as long as untreated posts, this being especially true of the softer varieties such as willow, ash, elm, soft maple, white cedar and cottonwood. Many consider it inadvisable, however, to creosote the harder woods, including oak, red cedar and chestnut.

The college recommends the use of round posts for creosoting rather than split posts, as the penetration will be more uniform. All bark must be stripped off and the timber well seasoned before creosoting.

"Creosote eight to ten inches above the depth to which the post is to be set since most rotting takes place at or just below the ground line," says Dr. Gross. "Posts three or four inches in diameter at the top give best results, as they are strong enough for most purposes and usually last as long as larger posts. It is important to get thorough and deep penetration of the creosote. A good vat is made of an old steel barrel set over a roughly constructed furnace. The creosote is kept at the boiling point and each batch of posts is left in the vat about two hours, depending on the rapidity of penetration. One inch penetration should be obtained. In order to determine this a post may be split or sawed in two. The tops of the posts should either be dipped or painted with hot creosote. A farmer having a wood lot may well spend a few days this winter cutting posts. Next winter these posts will be properly seasoned for creosoting."

Cornstarch Industry In America Is Enormous

The manufacture of cornstarch has grown to such proportions in this country that the industry now consumes about 50,000,000 bushels of America's great crop each year, according to the Department of Agriculture at Washington. From each bushel of corn the average manufacturer makes thirty-three pounds of cornstarch, and in 1921 the ten largest concerns made nearly 1,650,000,000 pounds of this product, which was more than 30 per cent of the total produced that year.

This industry, which began in the United States in 1844, has been growing rapidly in recent years. By 1880 the factories had reached a productive capacity of 230,000,000 pounds, and practically all of it was consumed here. By 1921 there were nearly 50 plants, and 80,000,000 worth of the output was exported. These figures are from a report recently made public by the department following a canvass of the industry.

"This department, through the bureau of chemistry, which enforces the food and drugs act, finds that cornstarch, with the possible exception of granulated sugar, is the least adulterated of all food products appearing on the markets," continues the department. "In addition to being used for food, it is also used for many technical purposes."

"In the food industry cornstarch finds its greatest use as a basis for the manufacture of corn syrup or glucose, about one-half of that produced in 1921 having been used for that purpose. It is employed by confection-

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE MISSING CHICKEN

It was time for Chick Chicken to furnish a meal for the family. And so they went forth to catch Chick Chicken. That, they knew, would not be hard to do. He was always right out in the barnyard, ready to be caught, it seemed.

But when they went out into the barnyard Chick Chicken was nowhere to be seen.

They hunted for him everywhere. But Chick Chicken could not be found. Something must have happened to him. He must have been run over or had some accident.

So, after they decided this, they took another chicken for the meal. After the meal was over and the family were out of doors, walking about, to their surprise they saw Chick Chicken.

He was wandering about as though nothing at all had happened. They watched to see if he limped or if he had been hurt in some way. No, he had not been hurt. He seemed perfectly well.

Nothing seemed to have happened to him, and he did not seem afraid of them. He came right up for his meal of grain and did not run away.

"He must have been lost," the family said. "Yes, he must have been lost and he has only just got back from his wanderings."

But he did not seem tired out nor did his feet look dirty, nor did his feathers look mussed.

He looked very calm, and very quiet and very pleased with everything. And so the days went on. And Chick Chicken wandered around the barnyard and had a beautiful time. He ate and he seemed to be a most contented chicken.

Well, a little while went by and the family were going to have a dinner party and they thought a nice chicken pie would be most delicious.

Well, they would have Chick Chicken this time. He certainly wouldn't be lost a second time.

But on the day of the dinner party, when they went to catch Chick Chicken, he was nowhere to be seen.

It was certainly very, very strange. Well, it had just happened that way. And they had to hurry with their party, so another chicken was caught.

And, after the party was over, once more Chick Chicken was seen walking around the barnyard as well and as contented and as happy as could be—no signs of having wandered off or of having met with an accident.

Yet a third time they decided they would really have Chick Chicken for a meal. He was getting a bit older and if they waited any longer he would be too old.

So this time nothing would happen. But something did happen!

For the third time, just as it drew near the moment for catching Chick Chicken he was nowhere to be seen. Nowhere at all. This time they kept near their minds to look for him—they did not think of an accident or of his having wandered off. But nowhere, nowhere could he be found.

Chick Chicken showed up again when all was safe. Whether it just happened this way the family never knew; but, anyway, they decided to leave Chick Chicken to spend the rest of his life in the barnyard—and, strange as his actions sound, this is a true story.

Got in First Lick

The youngster had thrown a stick at her sister, a year or two her senior, "Katherine," said daddy, "did you throw that stick at your sister?" "Yes, daddy," was the defiant reply. "Why did you do it?" "Because," instantly replied the youngster, with her eyes flashing, "afterwards she bit me."—Seattle Argus.

Not Much Good in Him

Edwin—Mamma, when we die will we take our bodies to heaven with us?

Mamma—We will take only what is good, son.

Edwin—Well, I'll bet that I'll be awfully thin when I get there.

Thenics in Danger

Little Boy—I'm not going to school today, 'cause we've got to work too hard.

Mother—What have you got to do? Little Boy—I don't know, but teacher said that we'd have calloused thenics after today's classes.

It is not work that kills men, it is worry. Work is healthful, you can hardly put on a man more than he can bear. Worry is the rust on the blade. It is not the revolution that destroys the machinery, but the friction.—H. W. Beecher

CHOICE GOOD THINGS

Dishes which are considered very choice in some families are not always appreciated in others. It is wise to train ourselves to enjoy all kinds of good foods. Now that the early grown onions are coming into the market a nice tasty dish which is easy to prepare and makes a most attractive looking one is:

French Onions.—Prepare and cook green onions in the desired quantity to serve. Toast rounds of bread, butter liberally, cover with onions which have been cooked until tender, salted and seasoned with pepper. Sprinkle with grated cheese, set in the oven to melt and just before serving pour over a tablespoonful of thick cream.

Savory Parsnips.—Wash parsnips thoroughly and boil in salted water until tender. Drain, wipe dry and peel. Cut in two lengthwise or leave whole as desired. Surround with a coating of sausage meat, roll in flour, range in a flat dish, sprinkle with salt and bake twenty minutes in a hot oven, baste with butter.

Chicken Baked in Milk.—Cut up a chicken into pieces for frying, season well and brown in a little fat butter or fat, roll in flour and lay in a baking dish; cover with milk and bake in a moderate oven until the chicken is tender and the milk cooked down thick enough for gravy. Serve poured over the chicken.

Apple Sandwich.—Chop one large apple and one-half of a cupful of raisins together. Spread thin slices of graham bread with butter, spread with the fruit mixture, sprinkle with lemon juice and cover with another slice of buttered bread.

Baked Apple Salad.—Core six small uniform tart apples and place in a baking dish. Fill the centers with brown sugar and a lump of butter for each. Bake as usual, basting with a little water, then chill. Mix together one-half cupful of chopped raisins, one cupful of quartered marshmallows with three-fourths of a cupful of mayonnaise. Fill the centers with the mayonnaise and cubes of jelly. Serve garnished with lettuce hearts.

Solid Trainload Of Studebakers

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
South Bend, Ind., April 17.—A solid train load of cars was forwarded today from the big Studebaker factories with Hartford, Conn., as their destination.

This is one of the biggest single shipments of automobiles made this year.

Leaving South Bend, this train consisted of fifty-two freight cars of Light and Special Six models. It was routed by the way of Detroit to pick up twelve more carloads of Six Sixes.

Altogether, the train contains 207 Studebakers, valued at approximately $300,000.

The Studebaker factories at both South Bend and Detroit are running at capacity.

BRAIDS AND BUTTONS CONTRIBUTE TO SMARTNESS

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

The cloth frock is a welcome addition to the wardrobe, lovely though the crepe and satin one may be. Of course, there is also the alpaca frock, and after a year or more of predicting that this modern version of an old-fashioned material would be good, it begins to look as though it would. All of which may be regarded as another proof that it takes time even to establish a French fashion.

On the crest of the same wave which brought in alpaca came cashmere and Ottoman silk, for while smart cloths are given a smooth finish in the majority of cases, some silks have a distinctly ribbed surface.

In dresses the costume idea is pre-eminent, and wraps which have a cape back in fact, little else meets with popular favor. This is especially true of costumes of crepes and such materials, while fine repps and soft woolen fabrics also lend themselves to this type.

Attention has more than once been focused on buttons, even the most ordinary kinds, such as are seen on underwear and referred to ignominiously as pants buttons, appear on smart frocks, while tiny pearl buttons, as well as larger ones, have their place, fortunately not confined to corresponding buttonholes. It is still the fad to follow a scalloped edge with a row of tiny pearl buttons, a type of trimming by no means restricted to dress dresses. On some of the smartest cloth frocks glass buttons make an attractive showing often assuming larger proportions and being used for decorative purposes only.

Metal bindings contribute brightness to other dark frocks, the bindings sometimes being merely more than a hair's breadth. Again, they are in broad bands. Braids of various types are also used, excepting cotton ones of the rich, dark color dipped in brilliant dyes. The color of colors as might be expected is red, since red catches the eyes at every level, beginning at the jaunty red hat of suede or ribbon and ending not in shoes as was the case last year, but in bands somewhere near the hem.

If riches meant happiness some people would laugh themselves to death.

MAC DONALD WISHES REPLY FROM U. S. ON DAWES PLAN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, April 17.—Premier MacDonald was said today to be greatly disappointed over the failure of the United States to reply to his cablegram outlining the British viewpoint upon the Dawes reparation plan. The premier, it was learned, had hoped that the British communication would evoke a favorable reply from Washington, since Great Britain is anxious to have the United States co-operation in any action that may be taken.

Relief prevails here that the United States is waiting to see what official attitude France takes toward the plan before going upon record.

There are indications that France and Belgium will take common action as they are jointly committed by Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr.

No Matter What You Pay - You Can't Buy More than De Forest!

NATURAL to suppose that a receiving set with a long name and a large number of tubes will bring in more stations and at a greater distance than a set with a shorter name and fewer tubes!

The way to find out the truth is to put a De Forest Reflex Radiophone in the same room with any set made—no matter how many tubes it uses—no matter how long its name—no matter how great its price—and buy the one that suits you best.

You will find that the De Forest D-10 Reflex will get all the stations any other set will get, probably more clearly, certainly more easily, and probably for about half the money. Its upkeep cost in tubes and batteries will be much lower. You can move it around from room to room or operate it in your car. When a better set is made De Forest will make it.

Remember that De Forest invented broadcasting. Remember that De Forest invented the vacuum tube which makes all present-day radio possible.

N. Y. Running The Wrong Way

Only City in U. S. Behind in Olympic Quota and the West May Be Right, Says Walsh.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 17.—For some years the west has contended that New York is not a part of the United States.

It became apparent today that the west may be right at that, following the official announcement that the United States Olympic committee is the richest and most populous city in the world was running more than 75,000 behind its quota toward the American Olympic fund. It is the only large American city in which the condition obtains to such a degree. San Francisco, for example, subscribed its quota in the first week of the drive and may go after more.

To date, something less than $25,000 has been raised in New York and the writer has been given to understand that not a small part of this came from the purses of private individuals who made the thing look good. There has been nothing forthcoming from the big sporting interests of the biggest sporting city.

Part of the Olympic program calls for competition in horse riding. Yet the local tracks and racing associations have not signified their intention to say it with blank checks or any other kind. Baseball hasn't offered either its money or services in spite of the fact that some 220,000 paid their way through the turnstiles on opening day and more are coming. It seems to be about time for someone to be informed of the significance of the syllable "pay" in patriotism.

That message can best be delivered from the house tops in the immediate vicinity of Times Square. Rickard and the boxing crowd are doing all that can be expected of them in arranging an Olympic benefit show of merit and attractiveness for late this month, but Broadway on the whole is a laggard. It boasts the richest ball clubs in the country, the Giants and Yankees. Their silence is oppressive. Its racing interests are large, rich and comprehensive. We are still listening. Its habits cast bank notes at head waiters and obliging orchestras. But they are looking down their silly noses at the Olympic committee.

New York is pleased to think that it sets the pace for the rest of the country. In this case, it happens to be running the wrong way of the track.

Johnson Talks In New Jersey

By The Freeman.

Newark, N. J., April 17.—Following his ringing declaration that he will "fight to a finish" for the Republican presidential nomination, Senator Hiram Johnson today swung to Jersey City and Hoboken on his speaking tour of New Jersey. PROFITABLE crops should be growing on that cleared land of yours—productive instead of idle. And blasting stumps is so much cheaper and easier than it ever was before.

Dumprite is clearing land for many farmers around here. The du Pont explosive blows out your stumps at lower cost and gives uniformly effective results. Dumprite gives you one-third more sticks for each dollar with about the same strength, stick for stick, as 40% dynamite—and the slow, heating action of 20%.

Dramatized by Jack Mower in "Western Skies."

Germans Call It a "Crisis"

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, April 17.—The Japanese-American immigration crisis was the center of interest in the German press today, dominating even the reparations situation.
Newspapers pointed out that Japan was too badly weakened by last year's earthquake, tidal wave and fire to "let strong words be followed by deeds."
"Japan must yield with gnashing teeth," commented Vorwaerts, official organ of the Socialist party.

This Old Love Letter Was "the Real Thing"

The man's mother had given the man's wife a love letter which she found hidden away in a mass of old papers. It had been written to the man when he was a boy and the writer was his sweetheart, fifteen years old. The man's mother laughed when she handed it to the man's wife, and the man's wife laughed when she handed it to the man.

But the man did not laugh. "Aha," said the wife in her merry way, "see how the past rises up against you."

The man took the letter and slowly unfolded it and softly read it aloud: "Dearest boy," he read, "I'm afraid you are mad at me because I walked with Johnnie Nicholson yesterday to school, but it wasn't my fault at all. You know I love you, dearest boy, a thousand million times more than I could love Johnnie, and when you look cross at me it breaks my heart. Ain't you going to take me to the school picnic Saturday—'cause if you don't I can't go. I cried when I wrote this, that's why it's spotted. Don't make me cry any more, dearest boy."

The man looked at the letter for some time. His gaze softened and he sighed.

"That was the real thing," he murmured, and he carefully folded the letter and turned away.

And then the man's wife was sorry she had given the letter to the man.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Method Is Devised to Seal Copper and Glass

Most metals will not adhere permanently to glass after they have been sealed to it while in a semi-molten condition, and if they are in the form of rods or blocks. Metal and glass expand when heated and contract when cooled at different rates, so that after sealing and cooling, inevitable separation occurs. The one notable exception has been platinum, which expands at very nearly the same rate as glass and has, therefore, been highly prized in the making of vacuum bulbs where electric current must be led into the bulb and the vacuum kept perfect and free from leaks. But platinum is much more costly than gold and so the electrical engineers have found a way by which copper may be sealed so closely to glass that a vacuum may be maintained. If the metal is flattened out into a very thin sheet with a knife-like edge the thing can be done. This is because the stresses which the joint may have to endure are in proportion to the thickness of either the copper or the glass. A thin sharp sheet of glass may similarly be sealed into a block of copper. So again has necessity become the mother of invention.

Census Statistics' Little Joke

Miss Mary V. Dempsey, junior statistician of the United States census of 1920, who has recently completed her task, believes that census reports as made by enumerators over the land are more comical in some essentials than the latest joke book. Miss Dempsey had 250 clerks under her classifying the reports and found her diversion in documents that classified "pigs' feet slingers" under "musicians"; and listed among other occupations those of "assembler of gravity"; "philosopher at home"; "instructor in a school for brides" (Niagara Falls); "instructor in a vestibule school" and "laborer in a hair mine."

Raggy Ann's Funeral

When Raggy Ann, the pet burro of Battery F of the Twelfth field artillery, recently died at Fort Houston, Tex., the men gave their mascot a burial with full military honors. The pet burro died in a battle against the pack mules of the battery. The body of Raggy Ann was lowered into a grave on Pershing field as field guns fired a salute and the bugler played taps. At the grave a headpiece was erected whereon were engraved testimonials of the love and affection which the members of Battery F felt for their pet. A wreath of alfalfa was placed beneath it.

Mozart and Others

A certain music composer of much talent and popularity—we will call him Jiffers—has a happy appreciation of his own work, as his friends all know.

So highly does he estimate Jiffers' compositions that some of his friends were much startled the other day when he said gravely: "Did you ever notice that the names of all great composers begin with M?"

"Yes, M," said the composer. "Mozart, Mendelssohn, Meyerbeer, Moszkowski—and Me!"

Pearls in U. S. Rivers

Through scientific propagation of fresh water mussels in the rivers of America, experts in the United States bureau of fisheries say it will be possible in time to make the rivers of the country yield fabulous harvests in pearls. Even now pearl fishing is conducted in some rivers of the United States, and during the last year more than $15,000,000 worth of pearls were found in the mussel shells at the bottom of the Mississippi, Black and White rivers alone.

Two Holsteins Butter Champions

Two new champion Holstein butter producing cows for New York are announced by the advanced registry department of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Onyx Lullith is New York's new leading Holstein cow for the production of butter in ten months as a junior three-year-old. In the herd of Miss M. M. Newell at Bedford Hills this cow completed her test with 21,387.2 pounds milk and 727.51 pounds butterfat—equal to 909.3 pounds butter. She also becomes the highest fat producing Holstein cow of her age in this class in the United States and ranks second among the nation's milk producing cows of her class.

The highest producing junior two-year-old cow of the state for ten months' production is Ormsby Sensation Abbecker, owned by Julius Schmid at Montgomery. Her record is 20,564 pounds milk and 682.46 pounds butterfat—equal to 853 pounds butter. This record makes her also the nation's greatest butterfat producer in her class as well as the second highest for milk.

ANNA SOBIN RELEASED ON $5,000 BAIL BOND

Rothenberg Nurse Girl Will Remain in Catskill.

Anna Sobin, sixteen year old nurse girl who is a material witness in the cases of the three persons charged with the murder of seven year old Howard Rothenberg in Windham last August, was released Wednesday from the Otsego county jail at Catskill where she has been under the supervision of the sheriff since September.

Her release followed the plea of her attorney Lester R. Smith of Catskill for reduction of bail from $10,000 to $5,000. Supreme Court Justice Rosch granted the plea on the ground that she is only a material witness and the principal defendants have been released in bail. Bail was furnished by Isaac Cooper and Isadore Margolis of Catskill. It is expected Miss Sobin will remain in Catskill until after the trial of Mrs. Esther Litt in the early part of June.

Mrs. Litt, Mrs. Charles E. Rothenberg, mother of the murdered boy, and Burtell Dranaugh, accused of slaying the Rothenberg boy, were admitted to $35,000 bail each in February.

COMMISSION STUDYING GERMANY'S ACCEPTANCE

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, April 17.—The inter-allied reparations commission today began studying Germany's note, pledging German cooperation in putting the Dawes reparation plan into execution.

The commission met late in the morning, disposing of routine business and giving attention to the German communication. Another meeting was summoned for 4 o'clock this afternoon to examine the German note officially.

The German communication was unexpectedly frank. It had been anticipated that Germany would make objection to certain provisions and seek reservations, but it did not mention conditions whatsoever.

Martin Safe, Trip Held Up

New Motor Must be Installed Before He Joins Other Planes—Week's Delay Probable.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Seward, Alaska, April 17.—The American round-the-world flight probably will be delayed a week as a result of the forced landing in Portage Bay by the flagship Seattle, piloted by Major Frederick L. Martin, according to advices today from Kanakak, where the destroyer Hull proceeded with Major Martin, his mechanic, Sergeant Harvey, and the plane after picking them up yesterday.

A new motor is being rushed from Dutch Harbor to replace the defective one in the Seattle. As soon as repairs can be made Major Martin will fly to Chignik where the other three planes of the globe circling squadron landed safely late Monday. Major Martin and his mechanic were none the worse for their experience. The Seattle made a perfect landing in Portage Bay when forced down and there, in comparative shelter, awaited the arrival of the rescue boats.

Kanakak, where Major Martin will await repairs, is a town which sprung up following the discovery of oil. When the round-the-world squadron took off here Monday, Major Martin's plane was plainly in trouble. He did not succeed in getting away until 15 minutes after the other planes had taken off. His engine was turning only about 1500 revolutions and he apparently could not reach a great height from the water, as when last seen here his plane was about 200 feet in the air. Major Martin continued with the squadron until Kanakak was reached and then realizing it would be impossible to negotiate the entire trip to Chignik, sought a safe landing.

Tibetan Gold Miner Can Take Only Dust

From time immemorial gold has been one of the principal exports from Tibet, being exchanged for silver and other products of the surrounding countries. The principal gold fields are found in the Changtang, or North Desert, and also in the territory east of Lhasa, between that city and the Chinese frontier.

The Tibetan gold miner, however, only collects gold dust, believing that should he remove any nuggets the supply of gold dust will cease, as the nuggets are supposed to be alive and to produce the nuggets by breeding.

An instance of the lengths to which superstitions belief is carried in Tibet is furnished by the following occurrence: The Tibetan government a few years ago sent a youth to England for training as a mining engineer and metallurgist, and on his return instructed him to search for gold.

In a very short time he discovered gold in exceptionally large quantities and proceeded to extract it from the ore in which it was embedded. Large numbers of nuggets were also found. Just as the work was getting into full swing the local lamas arrived on the scene and forbade further operations and directed that all gold already taken out should be put back.

The young engineer appealed to the Tibetan government to sanction his carrying on the work, as the find was of great value and would give very considerable revenue.

The lamas retorted that unless their instructions were carried out to the letter ill fortune would surely come to the country, and especially to the state religion. In the face of this attitude of the priests the government was powerless and in consequence one of the richest gold fields in Tibet, and for all that is known to the contrary, in Asia, must lie undisturbed for an indefinite period.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Acts as Phone Receiver

An incandescent lamp can be made to act as a telephone receiver, and to accomplish this there is needed a metallic filament such as an Osram lamp of 100-candle power. It is connected on a 120-volt direct current circuit with the use of a self-induction coil. In shunt on the lamp is a condenser, and also the secondary winding of a telephone transformer. On the primary end of the transformer is a five-cell storage battery and a microphone transmitter. Words spoken into the transmitter are reproduced by the lamp, thus giving a most novel effect. To explain this we may suppose that the telephone currents are added upon the direct current so as to give wax a which cause the lamp to burn hot or less brightly, according to the strength of the waves. This causes small changes of heat in the lamp that act on the glass and the air, so that a sound is heard. Thick glass stops the action, and it is best to use a 500 to 1,000-candle power lamp with thin glass, as this is most sensitive, and gives the best sounds.

Being the same premises described in a deed from Martha J. Bedrick to Geoffrey Stigart dated April 28th, 1890 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's office in Book 22 of Deeds at page 106, May 12th, 1890, dated March 25th, 1921.

The Truth

About this Light-Six—plus proof on proof

THIS Studebaker Light-Six is the supreme value in the "thousand-dollar" class.

It offers, not a few, but scores of advantages. In its chassis it represents the best that modern engineering knows. In its steel and quality of construction it is identical with the costliest cars we build.

This is to offer you proofs. Then urge that you see it before paying $1,000 or more for a car.

Some evidence

The extra values which this car typifies have made Studebaker the largest builder of quality cars.

They have made these cars a sensation. Sales have almost trebled in three years. Last year 145,167 people paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars.

The multiplying demand has forced an investment of $50,000,000 in model plants and equipment. Of this, $38,000,000 has been spent in the past five years, so the plants are up-to-date.

The engineering department which designs and superintends this Light-Six costs $500,000 per year.

The machines which build it are modern and exact. 517 operations on this car are exact to 1/1000th of an inch. 122 operations are exact to one-half 1/1000th of an inch.

1,200 inspectors are employed to submit each car in the making to 32,000 inspections.

Infinite care

The steels are selected from 35 formulas, each one proved best by cars in this class called in auditors to compare the operating costs. They made comparisons on 329 cars, running up to 25,000 miles.

It was found that this Studebaker Light-Six cost for operation 11.4% less than the average of its rivals. This figure included depreciation. That meant $207.50 saved on 25,000 miles. All because of this quality construction.

What it saves you

We build 150,000 cars yearly. All such major costs as engineering, dies, overhead, etc., are divided by 150,000.

We build in model plants, with modern machinery, which have immensely reduced the manufacturing costs.

A car like this, built under ordinary conditions, would cost you from $200 to $400 more.

Learn, for your own sake, what that means to you.

FAMOUS PAINTERS WHO HAVE STARVED

Story of Nineteenth Century Masters One of Suffering.

Again and again I am asked by people who "know nothing about art, but know what they like," what there is to admire in the pictures of Van Gogh, two of which have just been acquired for the British nation.

I only run the risk of being laughed at if I say that Van Gogh did not paint a mere chair, but the soul of the chair, and that it is impossible to explain it to those who do not feel the passion with which that wonderful Dutchman realized his conception of the real nature of inanimate objects as well as of living beings.

The wonder to me is not that there are people willing to pay $15,000 and more for one of Van Gogh's pictures, but that this practical recognition of his greatness was delayed until after his death, and that he was allowed to spend his life on earth in sordid poverty and neglect and on the verge of starvation.

But such is the story of the masters of the Nineteenth century, and more particularly of the Impressionists and their immediate precursors, Jean Francois Millet, the painter of the world-famed "Angelus," is a notable instance. One of his biographers tells us that "his days were darkened by adversity and hope deferred, the gaunt specter of Want hovered over about his home and was only driven from his threshold by almost superhuman efforts, while sickness and suffering were never long absent from his pillow."

Even more tragic than the story of Millet's life is that of Meryon's and Monticelli's. Meryon's whole career was a heartening struggle against adversity, ending in starvation and madness. When he had completed his wonderful Paris set of etchings he vainly tried to find purchasers for it at $5 the set. In 1810 an impression of one of the plates, "L'Abbaye de Notre Dame," sold for $3,200, and $1,000 is about the average price paid by collectors for a single impression of a plate from the Paris set.

Monticelli "lived in such poverty that he had to go round the cafes of Marseilles to sell small masterpieces for $2.50, disposing of them only with difficulty even at that price, and died, half-mad, in destitution."—London Mail.

How Much Can Man Lift?

Just what a man can get under and lift with his back is a mooted question. I have seen a man get under a platform upon which 22 men were standing and rear up and stand with it for over a minute. When I was nineteen years old I picked up with my arms and carried for a few paces a casting weighing 940 pounds. Later I carried a sugar barrel full of chains weighing around 900 pounds and have carried hundreds of barrels of oak-bark extract ranging from 600 to 800 pounds. I used to be a trifle proud of these feats until I got to perusing the World Almanac and noted real lifting and carrying feats which made my best look like child's play. If I remember rightly the heaviest lift made with the hands (unassisted with a rope around the neck) is around a ton.—Edgar Young in Adventure Magazine.

Trimmed

"Europe continues to be a very dear place," says Eugene O'Neill. "You see, they have one price for us Americans over there and one price for the native-born. They won't let us profit by our exchange."

"At a Deauville hotel one morning I was bidding good-by to a wealthy American and his daughter as they were about to set out for Paris by road."

"The daughter said, as she put on her leather helmet in the hotel lounge: 'Have we left anything, do you think, papa?'"

"The father gave a loud, grim laugh. He tore his receipted bill into little pieces."

"Have we left anything?" he said. "Lord, girl, you mean have we anything left?"—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

Hand and the Brain

An interesting illustration of the processes of reasoning whereby scientific conclusions are sometimes attained is afforded by the case of the human skull discovered some years ago at Chapelle-aux-Saints, in France, which in the opinion of some is probably the oldest bodily relic of prehistoric man. This skull shows many of the characteristics of that of a monkey, but little indication of intelligence. Careful examination, however, revealed a slight excess of size of the left hemisphere, from which it was argued that the owner of the skull was right-handed, and consequently a user of tools, a conclusion which is thought to be supported by the fact that ancient stone implements were found in the neighborhood.

Getting Rid of Old Glue

In gluing joints that have been previously glued, a good job cannot be done unless the old, hardened glue is removed entirely. To clean off the old glue, use a stiff brush—an old toothbrush will do—and hot water. This will do the work effectively and leave the surface in the best possible condition for rejoining. Allow the wood to become thoroughly dry before making a new joint.—Popular Science Monthly.

Found $5 in Suit

Carl Fisher of Lisbon, N. H., bought a new suit of clothes of a responsible firm. A few days later he felt a weight in one side. He slit the lining open and withdrew a $5 gold piece, a dime and three pennies.

It's the Bishop, Not the Convict

Who Is to Lecture at the St. James Church Here April 22, the Tickets to the Contrary Notwithstanding.

Much interest has been shown in the lecture to be given on Tuesday evening, April 22nd, at the St. James M. E. Church by Bishop William F. Anderson, on the subject, "Life, a Conquest," being given under the auspices of the Men's Club of the church.

An error occurred in the printing of the tickets which are being distributed for the lecture, the name on the ticket having been printed "William H. Anderson." William H. Anderson is the former head of the Anti-Saloon League of the state of New York and is now serving a sentence in Sing Sing prison for forgery, having been convicted of that crime in New York county several weeks ago.

The names of these two men being so similar, a great many people have undoubtedly failed to understand that they are two different persons. There is no relationship between Bishop William F. Anderson, bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church and William H. Anderson, former head of the Anti-Saloon League.

Bishop Anderson was a former pastor of the St. James Church of this city and it was during his pastorate here that the present edifice of the church was erected, and Bishop Anderson was very largely instrumental in the building of the church at that time. He is well known to all the people of Kingston who resided here during his ministry in the St. James Church.

Shortly after leaving Kingston he was elected a bishop of the church and for many years has presided over the Cincinnati area. During the war Bishop Anderson spent a great deal of time in France and in the war districts ministering to the spiritual needs of the United States armies, and wherever he is known he is universally loved as a man of the very highest spiritual type.

The committee in charge of the lecture desires no mistake to be made or misconception to exist in the minds of the public as to the identity of the lecturer for next Tuesday evening.

Easter Trade Is Good.

There is an old saying that to insure good health and success for the year one must wear three new things on Easter Day. If the large number of shoppers in the business sections of the city today is an indication of the truth of the old saying, there are many hoppers in it. Wall street and North Front street were filled with parked autos from 10 o'clock this morning and the stores seemed all to have many buyers, while the pedestrians were numerous.

Make Springs of Grass

A steel-like grass from the volcanic slopes of Oran, Algeria, is so elastic that it can be used instead of springs in the manufacture of furniture.

Prudent to Move.

The Prudential Insurance Company of America will move the Kingston district office about May 1 from over the Kresge store on Wall street to the second floor of the building occupied by the United Retail Chemists Corporation, corner Wall and John streets, recently part of the Spencer Business School that has moved to The Freeman uptown office building on Fair street, near Main.

Beware This Canned Corn

Nearly 10,000 Cans Destroyed in Troy by State—Had Been Sent Overseas Years Ago and Acid Had Eaten Away Tin.

State inspectors dumped 9,665 cans of corn which had been found unfit for human consumption at the Troy dumping grounds at Center Island. The corn, which attracted the attention of Commissioner B. A. Pyrrke, of the state department of farms and markets, through the offering of it for five cents a can by a Troy store, was found on sale in 27 stores. A sample showed that the corn, which had been canned in 1918, and sent to France for the use of the American Expeditionary Forces, had eaten away the surface of the can through acid generated by the corn. Inspectors will make a state wide investigation to locate other supplies of the brand which is unfit to eat. The firm handling the corn has withdrawn it from the market and is cooperating with the state officials in disposing of it. In the center of the cans was found a black mass.

Storm Clouds

The weather bureau says that the distance at which storm clouds are visible to the naked eye varies greatly with one's position and the kind of clouds. If a person is in an open, flat country, and the clouds are of the broad stratus or layer type, he may not see them more than 30 or 40 miles away, and even not half as far if the air tends to be misty or hazy. On the other hand, when the air is quite clear a well-developed cumulo-nimbus, or thunderstorm, cloud may, in favorable circumstances, be seen when more than 100 miles away.

Corners Not Desirable

Contrary to the commercial opinion in the United States, street corners are not always the most sought after for shops and stores in European cities. One of the reasons is that intersecting streets are not always continuous on both sides of the thoroughfares and also because busses or street cars often stop in the middle of the block or at certain stations instead of at every corner as is a custom in America.

Passing Back to Dad

Those who are still worried about the younger generation should attend to the following story, which I assure them is literally true. Not long ago an undergraduate told me that he personally did not like to drink, and did not drink except when home on vacations. "Even there," he said, "I do not really want to drink. But what shall I do? I can't hear to hurt father's feelings."—Scribner's Magazine.

Making Herself Clear

An 11-day paper furnishes us with a recent specimen of "English as she is wrote." It is copy of a letter sent by a woman teacher to the director of education, Manila, and reads: "Dear sir, I have the honor to resignate as my works are many and my salary are few. Besides which my supervising teacher makes many loving to me to which I only reply, 'Oh not, Oh not!' Very respectfully, Josefina."

Speaking of a Horse

A man drove into an old-fashioned hotel yard and, addressing the hostler, said:

"Extradite my quadruped from the vehicle and give him an adequate supply of nutritious aliment, and when the aurora of morn shall illuminate the horizon I will award you a pecuniary compensation for your amiable and obliging hospitality."

The groom thought for a moment, then rushed into the hotel and said: "Hi, Bill! There's a foreigner wants to speak to you."—Pearson's Weekly.

The Chase

We met up with Diana and made an appropriate bow.

"So you are Diana, goddess of the chase?"

"I have turned that job over to Bacchus now," said the fair one. "He is now patron of the chase, that is to say, rum hunts."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Boxing Becoming Popular in Japan

Boxing is rapidly becoming popular in the Japanese empire. At the present time it is practically confined to their colleges and universities although it is believed that during the year professional boxing will have gained considerable headway. Photograph shows students of Tokyo Imperial university engaged in an outdoor tournament.

Captain "Buzz" Stout

L. C. "Buzz" Stout, just elected captain of the 1924-5 Princeton university hockey team, is one of the greatest athletes at Princeton. He now holds a double captaincy, for he was elected captain of the 1924 football team.

Frank Frisch Discovered by Scout Arthur Devlin

Arthur Devlin, former great third baseman, is the scout who can point with pride to having discovered Frank Frisch, the Fordham Flash. Frisch is still quite a kid, but last season was about the most valuable player in the National league, according to his boss, McGraw. Figures tell a wonderful story about Frisch's ability. He made more hits than any player in the National league and more runs, with the exception of Pop Young, his teammate. Also he made thirty-two triples, ten doubles and twelve home runs.

Frisch was not going to play professional baseball when he was a student at Fordham. His father had thought of him being a lawyer and making a lot of money, and making it easy. McGraw promised him a salary of $5,000. That amount of money turned the youngster from the study of law. Now Frisch gets about $20,000. It's sure a hard life that some of the ball players live.

Most Effective Hurlers With Freak Deliveries

In the history of baseball there have been pitchers with freak deliveries who were most effective.

There was Ed Walsh with his spitter, and Russell Ford with his emery ball, and Eller with his shine ball, and a lot of others.

Still, when you sit down to pick out the great pitchers of the game, the men who lasted longest, the men whose names always will be a part of the history of the game, you will find that most of them made their fame by relying on their own skill without any mechanical or artificial aid.

Radbourne, Rusie, Young, Mathewson, Brown, Donovan, Johnson and the others like them didn't have to wet the ball, or polish or roughen a certain spot on it, or cut the stitching with a thumb nail to get results.

They had the stuff. They had the head, the arm, the cunning and the control.

Superior Infield of Some 20 Years Ago

Speaking of great infields, don't overlook the one composed of LaChance, Ferris, Parent and Jimmy Collins, some twenty years or so ago. This quartet performed for the Boston Americans and in those days was the class of the majors. Collins still ranks as one of the best third-basemen of all time, while Parent has had very few superiors at short. Ferris, at second, and LaChance at first, also were above the average at their respective stations. LaChance, Collins and Parent were all good hitters, with Ferris not being a weakling with the stick by a long margin. That was a great infield combination. Baseball has seen few that could touch it, all things considered.

Rain Tree

One of the Canary Islands possesses a rain tree of the laurel species which sheds a copious shower of pure water from its foliage every evening. The natives use the water for drinking and culinary purposes.

Baseball Notes

Lajoie was in the major leagues from 1896 to 1916, inclusive.

Fifty men reported for spring baseball practice at Fordham college.

Brooklyn has turned Pitcher Shriver over to the Nashville club of the Southern league.

Howard Bracken, University of Florida third baseman, will join the Brooklyn Dodgers June 1.

Joe Dunn, manager of the Evansville, Three-I club, has signed Clifford Bullard, a Cynthia, Ind., pitcher.

The Eastern league has rescinded its rule which prohibited clubs playing exhibition games during the season.

Harry "Bud" Weiser, former Philly, has signed to manage the Triple Cities team of the New York-Pennsylvania league.

There are no men in the major leagues born in Switzerland, yet there are many cheese athletes abroad in the land.

Two more players have been added to the Joplin club, L. Williams, a first baseman and Taylor Phelps, a third baseman.

The St. Louis Cardinals received a severe jolt when their first string catcher, Vernon Clemens, cut a cartilage in his knee.

Bishop, one of Arthur Fletcher's Philly pitchers, would probably be a great hurler were he able to hide his telegraphing delivery.

Jack Jefferies, former Princeton university and basketball captain, has signed with the Reading club of the International league.

New Haven of the Eastern league has taken on Harry Moger, a young right-handed pitcher, who has been playing semi-pro ball.

Walter McPhee, an infielder, turned over to the Little Rock Travelers by the Giants, has been sold to Pittsfield of the Eastern league.

Jack Martin will pilot the St. Petersburg club of the Florida State league this year. He managed the Daytona team in 1923.

Another semi-pro has been added to the ranks of the Mobile club of the Mississippi Valley league. He is Eddie Newhouse, a first baseman of Chicago.

Ruth "De-Parks" Ball

Here is Babe Ruth knocking the ball over the center field fence at Heinemann park, New Orleans, during batting practice. This is only the second time a ball has ever been "de-parked" there during batting practice, and it was Babe who did it the first time.

THE "PRESIDENT COOLIDGE HIGHBALL"

The "President Coolidge Highball" is not a drink. It's the kind of ball Mr. Coolidge delivers when he essays to pitch. He did that essay thing in the opening game between Washington and Philadelphia, of the American League, played in Washington. If the umpire had called it, it would have been "ball one" by a mile. The President was summarily retired from the mound and Walter Johnson rushed in to win by 4 to 0, his 101st shut out victory in the big leagues. Mrs. Coolidge is shown beside the President.

Dead Letter Office

The dead letter office is a division of the Post Office department under the control of the fourth assistant postmaster general to which unclaimed letters, parcels, etc., are sent from local post offices. It receives about 16,500,000 dead letters and parcels a year, and 9,000,000 post cards and postals. The loss to the general public through the careless directing of such matter is about $500,000 annually. No letters or packages are sent to the dead letter office until they have been given a directory service at the post office to which they are addressed, and all available methods to locate the addressee have been exhausted.

Otaheite Apple

The Otaheite apple has an unusual feature, the best specimens being extremely palatable and delightful, while the smaller and inferior specimens are highly resinous and distasteful. The fruit is the product of a stately tree of Polynesian origin, that has been planted in various places in Florida. The apple is of orange color, shaped like an egg and two or three inches long, the skin having at all times under pressure an odor of turpentine, but the yellow part of the fruit is pleasantly aromatic and bears a resemblance to the pineapple.—Nature Magazine.

VITAMIN DISCOVERY AID TO SCIENTISTS

See Possibility of Producing Nutritive Food.

New York.—Unusual interest has been aroused in medical circles by the announcement of Dr. Walter H. Eddy, professor of physiological chemistry in teachers' college, Columbia university, of the first isolation of any of the five known vitamins. Dr. Eddy and his associates believe that isolation of vitamin D or, as Dr. Eddy prefers, "bios," opens up the possibility of producing synthetic foods of a high nutritive value, though he warns patent medicine vendors in this respect.

Dr. Eddy told a distinguished body of scientists and physicians at the one hundred and thirty-eighth meeting of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine at Bellevue Hospital Medical college recently that he succeeded in isolating crystalline substance, which he believed to be chemically pure "bios." This substance was first described by Professor Wilder in 1900.

Dr. Eddy acknowledged the assistance in the series of extensive experiments he has been making at Columbia that he has received from Dr. R. Williams, in charge of the chemical laboratories of the Western Electric company, and Dr. Ralph Kerr, an expert in organic chemistry at Columbia.

At Bellevue Hospital Medical college Dr. Eddy produced four specimens of the isolated vitamin in test tubes before the eyes of his audience. He announced at the same time that in four experiments 70 milligrams were produced from moist autolyzed yeast. So far only a partial analysis has been made. The known composition of the substance is 43 per cent carbon, 25 per cent nitrogen, and 8 per cent hydrogen. Further experiments will be made at Columbia to determine the composition of the remaining 24 per cent.

In a supplementary statement Dr. Eddy remarks:

"Interest in the subject was revived in 1916 by Dr. Williams, who suggested that bios was actually vitamin B."

"Extracts of substances known to be rich in B, were shown by him to have the power of stimulating yeast growth, and Dr. Williams devised a test based on the use of yeast stimulation as a means of measuring the vitamin B content of substances. When this test was submitted to further study discordant results developed.

Cure for Beri-Beri.

"The final outcome was that while most substances rich in vitamin B do stimulate yeast growth, the stimulation may be due not to the presence of vitamin B, but to some other factor accidentally associated with it. In 1922 Dr. Casimir Funk was able to show that when an extract rich in B was shaken with fuller's earth, the earth would remove all of the power of the extract to cure beri-beri (a property exclusively related to B), but did not remove the yeast growth stimulation factor. Funk interpreted his results to indicate that such extracts contained two vitamins, one the antineuritic factor for which he proposed to retain the name B and the yeast growth factor which he called vitamin D."

"This suggestion of Funk's originated a controversy in which various investigators, including Dr. Fulmer of Iowa, have taken part. These investigators have attempted to show that the yeast growth factor, while highly stimulatory to yeast growth, is not essential to its growth. They would reserve the term vitamin to substances producing growth, but limit it to such as were absolutely essential to growth. Others, among them Dr. McCollum of Johns Hopkins university, believes the term vitamin should be restricted to such factors as are essential to mammalian nutrition. For these and other reasons the yeast growth factor has been described under the two names, Fulmer, McCollum, etc. holding it better to retain the name originally given it by Wilder, viz. bios."

Small Oily Fish Used by Japanese as Candles
Yankee. B. C.—Japanese fishermen are reaping a harvest in fishing for oilfishes this year, as there has been a good market established in the poorer districts of Japan for these fish for candle purposes.
So full of oil are these little fish that run in only two rivers on the coast of the British Columbia, the Naas and the Fraser river, that when they are dried and stuck on a piece of tin they will burn for hours and give a better light than the ordinary candle.
At one time the Indians used no other lights but candle fish.

Belgium Sends Stones to Canada as War Memorial

Brussels.—In fulfillment of a request from the City of Ottawa, the city of Louvain is sending to Canada stones from the ruins of the Louvain library and other historic buildings for use in a war memorial to Canadians who fell in France and Belgium.
The Belgian memorial to Canadians killed in October, 1918, during construction of a bridge for the transport of British troops over the Lys river, near Courtrai, will be dedicated soon. It will be composed of large blocks of granite surrounded by the figure of a Canadian mouse.

CROSSING STREET AN ADVENTURE IN LONDON

Police to Get Greater Powers to Handle Traffic.

London.—With the total number of street accidents reaching the record of 89,813 for 1923 London is now beginning to approximate New York in unenviable pre-eminence in traffic casualties. The figures compiled by the "Safety First" council in London include accidents involving persons or property.

Private automobiles lead the field as causing accidents, with motor trucks second. Buses, a great number of which were added to the city's total during the year, were responsible for fewer casualties than were bicycles.

"It will not be long," a London newspaper declares, "before it will be a minor adventure to get across the street. The hazard may prove a successful solution to the problem of cancer by preventing people from living too long."

Publication of these figures has created a widespread demand that steps be taken by the government to check the perils of life and limb incidental to London's present traffic chaos. There is a call for greater powers to be given the police to cope with the traffic problem.

"Short of a full inquiry—or development of additional eyes and emergency wings by pedestrians—the accident toll seems destined to grow larger," the newspaper article concludes. The comment sums up the general viewpoint here.

Woman Gets $3,000 as

"Extra Rib" Plea Fails

Philadelphia.—After a brief deliberation, a jury before Judge Audenried in the personal damage suit of Lizzie Wessels against Barthold Rosenberger, returned a verdict of $3,000 for the plaintiff.

As to whether she possesses the proverbial extra rib of women, or had one of the regular number split into two sections by the accident in which she was hurt, was an interesting and unusual topic of the testimony. She was knocked down by the defendant's automobile. The rib condition was the bone of contention in the medical testimony.

Counsel for the defense sought to prove by the doctor who had examined the injured woman that the so-called fracture or divided rib was in reality the much-discussed extra rib of woman. The physician replied in the negative.

Judge Audenried restricted the controversy over the extra rib, remarking dryly: "Most of us know a rib was taken from Adam to make Eve."

Rich New York Woman

Leaves Driver $17,000

New York.—Mary E. B. Foote of Larchmont, prominent member of the New York Sorosis club, in her will filed for probate at White Plains recently, left to her chauffeur, Peter Weisz, and his wife, real estate worth more than $10,000, her $6,000 limousine and the contents of her garage. Weisz had been in her employ 15 years.

Mrs. Foote's estate is valued at $150,000. To her niece, Eile Winchell Coolidge and Mary Rosemond Coolidge, said to be distant relatives of President Coolidge, of Watertown, Mass., was left her jewelry and furniture.

The residue is left equally to the nieces and a nephew, Joshua Warren Coolidge.

Defective Children Are

Placed in Institutions

Washington.—Enrollment of mentally defective children in the United States has increased from 10,217 in twenty-nine institutions in 1900 to 63,890 in 214 schools in 1922, and during the last four years has shown a gain of 15 per cent. The figures, which were issued by the federal bureau of education, were cited as indicating a growing interest in efforts to provide for subnormal children. The increase, it was added, does not mean the percentage of defective children has grown, but merely that the enrollment of them has extended with the advance of work in their behalf.

Improper Diet Causes

Great Diamond Rush

Now on in Transvaal

Paris.—More than 10,000 prospectors are feverishly fighting to stake claims in the diamond fields in the Stomps region, in Transvaal, following recent discoveries of huge gems, rivaling the finds in the Kimberly field, according to advices reaching Paris.
The diamond rush, recalling the Yukon gold stampedes, started when a Rhodesian farmer found a dozen large diamonds in the soil of his apparently worthless land. One of the diamonds weighed 35 carats.

No Machines on This

Of all American industries, that of making maple sugar is one of the most fascinating. Certainly none other has retained so great a measure of dependence upon the skill of the individual. It boasts many traditions. In a machine age it has found machines inadequate. It has never been and never will be a large-scale industry. In the quality of its product and largely in the methods of its marketing it is a personal proposition.—Nature Magazine.

Sheridan Caseys Stiff Opposition

From Their Record of Past Seasons—
Unknown To All But Schaffer—
Russell Condition Uncertain.

After meeting with defeat in their first start of the season, the Kingston Colonials will try to start a winning streak this Sunday at the expense of the Sheridan Caseys of Brooklyn. If they are to succeed in scoring a victory, the locals will have to play at top speed for the full route for the visiting aggregation has, in the past seasons, demonstrated their ability to hold their own with some of the best semi-pro teams in the Metropolitan district.

This will be the first opportunity for Kingston fans to see the Caseys in action as they have never appeared on the local diamond before. Their record for last season shows victories over the Perkskill A. C., U. S. Marines and Oseining. Schaffer, the new Colonial shortstop, has faced the Brooklyn Knights before, but he is the only one of Judge Schirlick's charges who will be playing familiar opponents.

At present it is impossible to say just how the Colonials will take the field Sunday. This is due to the injured Swat Russel. Latest reports from the Bridge City are to the effect that Swat's condition is too uncertain to make any reliable statement as to whether or not he will be in uniform and ready for the Sunday set. If he is in shape, the regular infield will have a real workout, with Dewey at second, his regular berth and his fellow Poughkeepsian at short. In this event Matty Deegan will play in the outfield. Deegan's big stick is a very big element in the Colonials' scoring power and Manager Schirlick feels that he cannot spare Matty and his hitting.

Bud Culliton will undoubtedly be on the mound and ready to go the full route. He displayed real mid-season form last Sunday and can be depended upon to give the Knights trouble at all stages of the game. Bud's control against the D. & H. outfit was excellent and it was his ability to put the ball where he wanted it that kept the Generals from the scoring column several times. Manager Hogan has two twirlers to select from. Wood and Maguire, both strangers to local fans, but well known in the Metropolitan district. Wood was a teammate of Schaffer last season.

While in Kingston the Caseys will be the guests of the local Knights and will have the freedom of the Knights of Columbus home.

Steamer Odell Will Burn Oil

The steamer Odell of the Central Hudson Line is being overhauled and gotten ready for the season, at Newburgh. This year the big vessel will burn oil instead of coal. The oil burning apparatus has been installed and it will be given a thorough trial this season. It would not be surprising, if the experiment proves a success, that all of the steamers of the line were turned into oil burners.

STRANGE WILL OF ENGLISH ENGINEER

Directed That All of His Books Be Burned.

The British courts have been occupied of late with a curious case, which turns on the right of a person to provide by will for the destruction of his property. The will in question is the testament of a retired engineer who had passed his active life in India, and who went back to England to shut himself up in a room in a London hotel and devote his days and nights to the study of English authors of the Shakespearean period. He collected a library that contains many rare and valuable folios and quartos and kept it in storage, bringing books to his hotel as he wanted them to study or annotate. When he died he left a will hastily scribbled on a scrap of paper in which he directed that all his books be burned, in order that other scholars might not see and use his marginal notes.

Of course the singularity of the will attracted public attention, and book-lovers who knew the value of the collection quite apart from—perhaps in spite of—the engineer's scribbled comments took action to postpone the execution of the will until it could be determined whether there was not some way of saving the books.

We have not learned what decision, if any, the courts have made, but it seems that legal ingenuity should be able to find some way of preserving the venerable volumes. Certainly common sense, if it were allowed to control, would set the will aside. The state has long had the power to determine, if it pleases, how much of a man's property he shall devise, and it has also asserted its authority to limit his right to distribute what he leaves. Why, then, should it lack the power to nullify his order to destroy it?

Conceivably a man might direct his executors to burn down a house to which he was attached, in order that no one else should ever enjoy it; or a woman might order her jewels to be destroyed in order that no one else might ever wear them. Would not a court be justified in setting aside such wills as those on the ground that the testators were of unsound mind—on one point at least? How valuable the engineer's library is we do not know; but it is incredible that the courts would permit such a library, for example, as that of Mr. Henry E. Huntington in this country to be destroyed. Mr. Huntington himself would, of course, be more horrified than any one else at the idea of burning the books that he has so lovingly collected, but would not any one of sound mind shrink from such an act of vandalism?

Perhaps the courts may direct that the laborious notes of the retired engineer be erased, and that the volumes, thus purged of his scholarship, be preserved. The world can probably get along very well without his comments. We have not heard of any unseemly competition among English scholars for the chance to examine them—but for the old folks, we hope, will survive for many another bookworm to possess and enjoy.—Youth's Companion.

Little Known Animals

The open savannah forests of the Transvaal low veldt, in South Africa, harbors a wealth of game unheard of in most parts of the globe, writes Miss B. Reekie, in American Forests and Forest Life. There is the blue wildebeest in herds of 50 or more, roaming the veldt like the buffalo in the United States years ago. The sable and roan are antelopes of great size and wonderful fighters. The waterbuck is a more peaceful animal, resembling somewhat the elks of Jackson Hole, Wyo., with the exception of the horns. The impala, a small antelope, is considered the prettiest of them all. The hartbeest is unattractive, while the kudu is a stately animal which I have not had the good fortune to meet. The zebra is common but is not killed for its meat, and the ostrich is protected. Crocodiles are plentiful along the rivers, and snakes, leopards, and lions are not uncommon.

Had Good Excuse

The office boy had evolved many excuses, some of them so weird as to indicate that he had been taking his cue from the news of the day. The boss was getting peevish and the manager had instructions that the next excuse would have to be good enough to stand rigid investigation. The occasion soon arrived, but again the boy had the best of it. Meeting the manager in the corridor, the boss demanded: "Where was the office boy yesterday?"

"He pleads loss of memory."

Wise Judge

"I hear you were judge at a baby show," said Hoff's friend Cuthbert. "I was," admitted Hoff. "If I have heard you say one, I have heard you say fifty times that all the babies look alike to you," said Cuthbert. "They do."

"Then how could you tell the prettiest baby?"

Hoff answered: "I judged by the mothers."—Minneapolis Tribune.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

Jack Quinn, the ancient salivary gland, defied age and Babe Ruth for nine full innings and the Yanks finished second to the Red Sox 9 to 6. Quinn confined the champions to six hits of which Ruth got not one in five trips to the plate.

Although that hapless invalid, George Sisler, delivered three hits and fielded perfectly, he couldn't lift his Browns above the level of two runs and the White Sox gained a 3 to 2 decision, thanks to the tenth inning single of Eddie Collins.

The Giants, like the immortal cat, came back against the Dodgers, scoring a 7 to 1 victory, through the laudable pitching of Jack Bentley.

Max Carey hastened in with the lone run of the Pirate-led game in the ninth. He singled off Luque, advanced over Bigbee's sacrificial remains, stole third and scored on Traynor's single.

The much ballyhooed left gift of Earl Whitehill turned the Indians back and the Tigers coasted in by score of 5 to 1.

The Cubs trifled with Haines and three other Cardinal pitchers for a matter of 17 hits and won in a romp, 13 to 4. Alexander, hit hard, made Hornsby tap into a force out and Bottomly into a double play with the bases filled and none out in the seventh.

Rommell was entirely too good and Mogridge entirely too bad, in consequence of which the Athletics took a fall out of the Senators, 6 to 1.

There is much joy in Mudville for Casey, mighty Casey, the rollicking Stengel soaked a home run in the tenth giving the Braves a 4 to 3 verdict over the Phillies.
